2020 Annual Report

Purpose:

The FFLA National Research Project is designed to provide an accelerated effort to enter all remaining lookout structures in the National Historic Lookout Register (NHLR) as a priority and the Former Fire Lookout Sites registry (FFLOS) as a secondary, historic documentation effort.

Contributors

The main contributors during 2020 continue to be Brad Eells and Tammy McLeod. Kyle Stetler has been provided access to work on Montana listings and will soon be working on them.

California Pilot Project

The California Pilot Project continued into 2020 and was generally completed though additional listings continue to be made as discovered, particularly for the FFLOS.

Idaho Project

Access was granted to Brad Eells for an update of Idaho NHLR listings. 51 listings were added to bring the total from 112 listings to 164 during 2020. The project is grateful to Luke Channer, Gary Weber, Rex Kamstra and Tom Lopez among others for providing images and information for these listings.

Washington FFLOS Project

Tammy McLeod reports that all FFLOS listings are complete at this time. She has interest in working on Idaho and Montana listings if desired.

Tammy completed 63 FFLOS listings for Washington in 2020.

2020 Accomplishments:

- Entered to date – 6 California lookouts to the NHLR
- Entered to date – 81 California lookouts to the FFLOS
- Entered to date – 51 Idaho lookouts to the NHLR
- Entered to date – 63 Washington lookouts to the FFLOS

2021 Plans:

- The National Research Project will be wrapped into the Archivist/Historian office for 2021 and beyond.
- Recruit team members to research lookout sites in each state where entries remain.
- Educate team members on research and entry best practices.
- Remain available for questions or ideas.
- Pursue all additional media recruitment opportunities.
- Continue to add listings to the NHLR and FFLOS as the team forms.

Conclusion:

The FFLA National Research Team will become a working group headed by the Archivist/Historian as approved by the Executive Committee in late 2020.

We look forward to an opportunity recruit, train and implement a team to research and document the remaining and former fire lookout structures in the United States and perhaps beyond.

Respectfully submitted,

Brad Eells,
National Research Project
